About

Hi,

I'm a full stack developer, preferring to work with MERN stack (MongoDB, Express.js, React.js,Node.js), with a great understanding of React.js and node.js

My background is in electrical engineering, but I wanted to build an e-commerce website, and I ended up taking many courses to build it. After taking a lot of courses now, I became a web developer.

Furthermore, I have excellent front-end skills (HTML, CSS, and Javascript). In order to make a perfectly responsive website, I look into all the details. and test it on different devices to make sure that everything works great.

I can take the responsibility of helping you to attract more visitors to your website I am confident in my UI/UX skills.

I'm good at using Figma, I am learning UI/UX design as well

I love building websites from scratch with everything and I can help you build your own. Please feel free to text me, it will be my pleasure to assist you
